LADIES' GLASGOW WEEKEND 2004 - THE TRUE STORY!

On November 5th the ladies set off on our annual pilgrimage to Glasgow, reluctantly leaving families behind to fend for themselves.

With troubled consciences we set off on the bus to our destination to Jurys Inn.

Getting there proved a slight problems the driver had never been to the centre before. His only knowledge of Glasgow was Ibrox. However after lots of discussion (with 24 women on board this was not difficult) and a few phone calls we arrived safely on time for our evening meal.

After that there were several get togethers in our rooms where, because everyone was so upset at leaving families behind for 2 whole days, a few drinks were required, just to calm nerves. Some folks were not even in bed until 2.30 am. they were so worried!

But true to the Dunkirk spirit we all arose early on Saturday morning to brave the battle of the shops, all returning heavily laden and needing the sustenance of an evening out with lots of food and drink (some going off to see Miss Saigon for a bit of culture)

Arriving back at our hotel for another few drinks in our rooms we all stumbled (not literally) into our beds only to be rudely awakened at 5 am. by a very loud alarm. Surely not!! This cannot be! Lightning doesn't strike twice does it?! (I refer to our evacuation from Central Hotel 3 years ago where Lynn Ross and Co. ended up on the station platform in their nighties).....but yes it was the fire alarm. So we all dutifully trooped downstairs and shivered outside until allowed back in about 45 minutes later.

Again, true to form we were all up and ready to go for our sortie to Braehead and Ikea. The same bus driver arrived to pick us up and we all set off, Ann Wilson holding us all up, but that's another story (sorry Ann, couldn't resist it!). This journey took slightly longer than anticipated as the driver missed the turn off and we had a tour of the area for about 30 minutes before we got back on track. This did not quell our spirits and we were all still in merry mood when we set off for the shop, arranging to meet back at the bus at 5. (Patsy was unable to go this year so we knew we would all be there on time).

Alas this was not to be. In the car park, the bus was pranged by a car which then sped off with the bus giving chase...naturally the car won and the bus limped back to the bus stop, with the bumper trailing on the ground and car lights flashing us all the time. After a long wait during which time the police arrived, the front bumper was cut off and we travelled back with it right up the centre of the passage. There are no jokes that can be made out of this that have not already been made on the bus, believe me!

To all the ladies who have not yet been to Glasgow with us, I extend an invitation to join us this year. We will again be going to Jury's Inn at the beginning of November. To all the ladies who normally go....get your cheques ready girls and fill in the form enclosed and return it to:- Betty Gibson, 4A Green Lane, Carnoustie, DD7 6AA, Tel 852592
